

I am very concerned about Media Monoply. I think that the public is largely unaware of this pressing issue and that it is going to be swept through tp the hurrahs of big business and to the detriment of the American public. A recent study by The Project for Excellence in Journalism showed that a large majority of the American public aren't aware of the media ownership changes being suggested by the Federal Communications Commission (FCC). I hope that the public interst will prevail and that Media controls will remain in place. There is already too much control by mega-media ownership like Clear Channel and AOL Time Warner, please don't make it worse!
